

Straight to Video

BY ALISON SIELOFF

What happens when you take a Bosnian immigrant who has various film credits to his, erm, credit (including a work in the Yugoslav Documentary and Short Film Festival and a collaboration with the renowned video-installation artist Krzysztof Wodiczko, to name just a couple accomplishments) and put this multimedia producer in the same room as a piano player who has the most perfect name for a piano player ever? And then, just for good measure, let's say that you also throw in an excellent DJ and some belly dancers? Well, you'd get E.S.P., but not of the Kreskin variety; these initials actually stand for the Experimental Sound Project (groups.myspace.com/espstl), and it's happening from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Hi-Pointe (1001 McCausland Avenue; 314-781-4716). Pay the $5 to get in, and join VJ Zlatko Cosic, DJ Leon Lamont, pianist Mr. Stoobins (see? perfect name, huh?), Video Amin and the dancers from Final Veil as they all lead you on an extrasensory experience that promises to be all-consuming — not to mention way fun. Thu., March 2

Hi-Pointe, 1001 McCausland Ave. , St. Louis

High-concept at the Hi-Pointe.
